Lee: OK. It says we should turn left at the corner at the end of this street, and then go straight ahead for five hundred metres.
Kim: Look, now we're next to the cinema. Are you sure you typed in the correct address?
Lee: Yes, look!
Kim: No! You typed in Westlake Street! I said Westgate.
Lee: Oh, I'm so sorry!
Kim: I know. Let's use this paper map and compass instead.
Lee: Good idea.
Kim: If we look at our compass we are north, so we should be here. Now we have to turn right at the next corner...

23  Listen and read. Then answer. 2:01

- 1 Are there more people in cities or in villages?
- 2 Where is life more noisy?
- 3 Are cities as busy as towns?

Urban and rural life

The number of people in a place is called the population. People who live in a town or a city are called the urban population and those living in a village are called the rural population. Towns are not as big as cities and there aren't as many people. There aren't as many shopping centres, universities and stadiums in towns and villages as in cities. Cities aren't usually as clean as towns, but sometimes towns can be as dirty as cities. There isn't as much traffic in villages as there is in towns or cities. In some big cities like London there are as many parks and green spaces as in smaller towns, if not more! Life in a village isn't as noisy as in a city, but village life isn't as busy as city life. Some towns are as quiet as villages and can be very interesting.

24 Match the definitions with the words in bold in Activity 23.

- 1 to do with towns and cities
- 2 to do with the countryside
- 3 not clean
- 4 the number of people in a place
- 5 a small town, often in the countryside
- 6 cars, buses and other vehicles on the road

1 I'm from a small town in Andalucía, Spain. My house is very unusual. It's a cave house. Some people think caves are scary and dark, but I think they're great.
